AILA Membership Requirements

To Apply

Please detach and complete the attached application. Applicants whose principal place of business falls within the geographic jurisdiction of any AILA chapter must join that area chapter and pay both national and chapter dues. Applicants whose principal place of business falls outside a chapter jurisdiction (such as Alaska and Montana) become At-Large members and pay national dues only. Please use the list on this page to determine your proper dues rate. AILA membership is non-transferable.

Membership Eligibility

According to the AILA Bylaws, any attorney, except those employed by the United States government or by the Labor Department, Employment Service or a like body in any state, territory or subdivision thereof, is eligible to be a member of this Association if such attorney:

a. at the time of application is in good standing with, and for three years immediately preceding application has not been suspended or disbarred by any court, mandatory bar association, administrative agency or other disciplinary authority;

b. is licensed to practice law and is a member of good standing of the bar of any state or territory of the United States or the District of Columbia or, on June 14, 2007 was an active approved Member of the Association and who thereafter has maintained membership and eligibility for it under these by-laws without interruption; or

c. is employed full-time as a law professor at a law school accredited by the American Bar Association and who is eligible for full membership in the American Bar Association but who is not admitted to practice in any State or the District of Columbia.

Burden of Proof and Waiver

Applicants must prove their eligibility to become a member of the association. The Executive Committee may waive membership requirements for certain applicants with the affirmative vote of four-sixths of the Committee Members.

Admission and Election

Once the AILA National Office receives a completed application and payment, the applicant's eligibility is determined, and his/her name will be entered onto a roster of pending members. National Office acceptance normally takes 14 days, and accepted applicants are notified by the National Office. If the application is not accepted, dues are fully refunded. Upon National Office acceptance, applicant information is forwarded to the local chapter which has 90 days to raise an objection to any applicant. If no objection is raised, after 90 days the applicant will become an approved member of AILA. If the local chapter raises an objection, applicant information will be forwarded to Committee for further review.

The National Office notifies At-Large applicants of acceptance, usually within 30 days of receipt of application. If the application is not approved, dues are fully refunded.

Dues

Applicants must include both chapter and national dues with their application, unless one resides abroad or there is no chapter in your jurisdiction. AILA dues are not deductible as charitable contributions for federal income tax purposes, although a portion of your dues may be deductible as a business expense. Due to the tax laws, you may not deduct the portion of your dues that is used for lobbying activities. Chapter dues payments are not affected by this tax law. Based on our best estimates for 2014, the nondeductible portion of your national dues is 5.9%.

Nonprofit Membership

If you are employed by a registered non-profit organization, which provides free or low cost services to immigrants, and earn less than $61,644 per year, you may be eligible for a reduced dues rate. For more information and the necessary paperwork, please contact AILA's Membership Department by phone at (202) 507-7635 or via e-mail at membership@aila.org.

AILA Consumer Protection Affirmation

The American Immigration Lawyers Association supports the ethical and highly competent practice of immigration law. The Association neither condones nor supports the splitting of legal fees with unlicensed alleged practitioners of immigration law, which includes the selection and completion of documentation to be filed with any U.S. government entity. As we all know, filing for a benefit or selecting an immigration avenue involves a thorough review of the client's history in order to make any recommendation for action. The Association has been made aware of lawyers who are basically lending their license to non-lawyers practicing immigration law when the lawyer does not review or supervise the actions or inactions of said entities or individuals. AILA considers these arrangements to be unethical and a violation of the AILA bylaws which require that members engaged in the practice of law be so engaged in compliance with the law applicable in the place that they practice.
