	“Exempt” H-1B Nonimmigrants		Pursuant to 20 CFR 655.738 and 655.739, an employer that is H-1B dependent or a willful violator is generally subject to the attestation obligations regarding displacement and recruitment of U.S. workers. However, these additional statutory obligations do not apply to an employer where the LCA is used only for the employment of “exempt” H-1B nonimmigrant worker(s), as described in 20 CFR 655.737, who either (1) receives wages (including cash bonuses and similar compensation) at an annual rate equal to at least $60,000; or (2) attains a master’s or higher degree (or its equivalent) in a specialty related to the intended employment. For purposes of claiming the exemption, “master’s or higher degree (or its equivalent)” means a foreign academic degree from an institution which is accredited or recognized under the law of the country where the degree was obtained, and which is equivalent to a master’s or higher degree issued by a U.S. academic institution. The equivalence to a U.S. academic degree cannot be established through experience or through demonstration of expertise in the academic specialty (i.e., no “time equivalency” or “performance equivalency” will be recognized as substituting for a degree issued by an		Appendix and submit supporting documentation . A “specialty” which is not generally accepted as appropriate or necessary to the employment would not be considered to be sufficiently “related” to afford the H-1B nonimmigrant status as an “exempt” H-1B nonimmigrant. 20 CFR 655.737(d)(2). Where the employer has designated that the LCA will be used to support H-1B petition(s) and/or request(s) for extension of status for “exempt” H-1B nonimmigrant workers based on attainment of a master’s or higher degree (or its equivalent) in a specialty related to the intended employment, the employer must fully complete and submit the Form ETA 9035, Appendix A. The employer must disclose the educational attainment information for all “exempt” H-1B nonimmigrant workers who will be employed under the LCA for which the employer is claiming the exemption because the worker has a “master's or higher degree (or its equivalent).” Where

multiple H-1B nonimmigrant workers attained the same degree in the same field of study from the same institution on the same date, the employer is only required to disclose the educational attainment information once on the Form ETA 9035, Appendix A. Because each of the initial five (5) educational attainment information sections is identical, the instructions for completing the collection elements are only described one time below. Each field within the educational attainment information section must be completed.

NOTE: If the employer will claim the exemption for workers with a “master’s or higher degree or higher (or its equivalent)” for more than five (5) workers with different educational attainment information, the employer must report as many additional sections of educational attainment information as are necessary to cover all “exempt” H-1B nonimmigrant workers who will be employed under the LCA.
