SERIES AND TITLE DETERMINATION:

This position involves providing professional legal support and advice on the requirements of the law; interpreting and implementing regulations and policy; and drafting, negotiating, and examining legal documents/decisions involving immigration law and administrative law for the Office of Policy and other offices throughout EOIR. Based on titling guidance, this position is titled Attorney-Adviser (General).

GRADE DETERMINATION

Two separate factors are considered in the GS-0905 standard in the determination of the proper grade level for attorney positions. These factors are (a) Nature of the cases or legal problems; and (b) Level of responsibility. Grade level conversion is made by combining the highest factor levels that are representative of the position to a significant extent.

a. Nature of Cases or Legal Problems

The Attorney, ILD, provides legal support and advice to the supported organizations and activities. The legal work involves the interpretation and application of legislation, preparing and conducting reviews of immigration law practices, obtaining and evaluating expert testimony or information. The incumbent performs extensive research; determines implications of novel and complex law issues;. Legal issues are often extremely complex, difficult and novel, requiring a high order of legal endeavor and originality to obtain a reasonable balance of potentially conflicting interests.

Type III is assigned.

b. Level of Responsibility

The Attorney, ILD works independently as legal adviser to the Chief, Immigration Law Division. Develops factual information, including regulations, related to immigration law and administrative law. Is responsible for ensuring that policies, procedures, and regulations are consistent with the intent of the law. Confers with top officials in the agency, state, local and Federal government. Assignments are carried out with some preliminary instruction in terms of the provision of policy considerations. The incumbent recommendations are given heavy consideration and usually accepted.

regulations for all assigned programs. In particular cases, independently reviews and drafts proposed agency decisions, without technical review, for agency officials who exercise final authority over the matter. However, at Level C, incumbent also reviews program material from the operating organization for legal soundness. Completed work in the advisory and regulatory areas is reviewed for consistency with agency policy, possible precedential impact, and overall effectiveness. Work is considered technically correct.

(3) Personal Work Contacts: Incumbent confers with, negotiates with, and/or advises senior - level offices/officials throughout EOIR. The Attorney Advisor, Immigration Law Division, may also participate in frequent and recurring meetings with senior officials from outside EOIR, technical staff at bureau and major organizational levels of the agency or with comparable personnel in other Federal agencies, key staff of public interest groups (usually in formal briefings), persons with significant political influence or the media. Contacts may be to present, justify, defend, negotiate or settle significant or sensitive /controversial matters; attend meetings to accomplish such goals as influencing, motivating, or persuading others in the creation and communication of regulations and drafting of policy, which may have national implications due to congressional or Administration interest.

(4) Nature and Scope of Recommendations and Decisions: Legal advice on the interpretation of federal and immigration statutes, regulations, and policies. The Attorney Advisor, serves as a technical expert within the Office of Policy and performs a myriad of duties in support of the analysis, development, drafting, and promulgating of agency operating policies and procedures. The complex legal and policy analysis services provided directly impact EOIR operations in all components. The services and analysis provided ultimately impact large segments of the Nation's population and have continuing congressional and media scrutiny.

All four elements identified in the standard, are evaluated as Level D.

Nature of Cases or Legal Problems - Type III

Level of Responsibility - Level D

Final Classification: Type III -Attorney-Advisor (General) work, level of responsibility Level D, Attorney-Advisor (General), GS-0905-14.

James – I just talked to Mike Allen and we've got a new approach on this. The normal reorg process is that JMD sends a memo to the Attorney General requesting approval and his signature on the new org chart. The proposal is then forwarded to OMB and the Hill for review. The AG signed org chart is held until the Hill has approved the proposal.

As we are inserting this request into the DOJ spending plan, there is not enough time for a memo to the AG. Mike feels comfortable with the Spending Plan going forward with this if we get an email ok from the AG's office on the reorganization. Subsequently, JMD will go to the AG's office to get a signature on the official org chart.

We also submit that the most expeditious approach is for you (rather than JMD) approach ODAG & the AG to get the email ok.

I've attached your memo to Lee (both the PDF and the word version in case you wanted to cut and paste anything).

Please let me know if you'd like to discuss further or need anything else from me.

Thanks, lisa

James and Katherine – attached please find the HR-blessed PD for the Assistant Director for the Office of Policy. They’ve done some streamlining, formatting, and verbiage tweaks. Please let us know if you have any edits, comments, or concerns. As to next steps, the PD does not need review or approval from OPM, but we do need to write up a corresponding crediting plan and technical qualifications then forward the whole package to JMD. I am going to draft the crediting plan and technical quals (I’ll share them when I have a draft) and once you are comfortable with all of these things we will seek JMD approval.
