

October 31, 2016

The Honorable Jeh Johnson
Secretary
U.S. Department of Homeland Security
Washington, D.C. 20528

Dear Secretary Johnson:

We, the 231 undersigned organizations write to express our alarm over the Department of Homeland Security (“DHS”) record-level immigration detention rates, and to request a meeting to discuss this crisis as soon as possible.

The Wall Street Journal has reported that in coming weeks and months the immigration detention rate will hit a historic high of 45,000 immigrants detained per day and could climb to 47,000 by June.<sup>1</sup> These numbers far exceed the congressionally imposed bed quota of 34,000, shattering all prior detention records. The agency’s own officials report they are “scraping the bottom looking for beds,” raising concerns that new facilities will not conform with the Prison Rape Elimination Act regulations or with the most recent detention standards.<sup>2</sup> The final year of the Obama administration has ushered in the highest rate of immigration detention that the U.S. has ever seen.

Beyond the record-breaking detention levels, we are astonished that Immigration and Customs Enforcement (“ICE”) recently renewed a contract with Corrections Corporation of America (“CCA”) —one of the nation’s largest for-profit prison companies — to continue detaining Central American families in Dilley, Texas. ICE renewed the Dilley 2,400-bed contract for another five years, through September 2021.<sup>3</sup> This CCA contract extension came at a time when the Homeland Security Advisory Council is actively evaluating whether DHS should end the use of private prisons, and only weeks after the DHS Advisory Committee on Family Residential Centers recommended that DHS end family detention and overhaul immigration policies to safeguard child welfare.<sup>4</sup> The Dilley contract extension has made it unmistakably clear that DHS will continue to do big business with private prison titans at the expense of the most vulnerable in our midst — Central American children and mothers who remain detained for months, sometimes longer than a year, as they pursue their asylum claims.

The mass detention of families and asylum seekers must end. DHS detains approximately 3,600 mothers and children per day,<sup>5</sup> the vast majority of whom have endured violence and persecution in Central America and have significant claims for humanitarian protection.<sup>6</sup> At the same time, DHS has significantly increased its detention of adult asylum seekers who are fleeing persecution in Central America, Africa, and other regions.

<sup>6</sup> See UNHCR, Children on the Run: Unaccompanied Children Leaving Central America and Mexico and the Need for International Protection (2014); UNHCR, Women on the Run: First Hand Accounts of Refugees Fleeing El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras and Mexico (2015).

The mass detention of asylum seekers has been driven by two major policy shifts since 2014: a deterrence-based detention policy directed at Central Americans seeking asylum and the November 20, 2014 immigration enforcement priorities memorandum which has been interpreted to treat asylum seekers “apprehended at the border or at ports of entry attempting to unlawfully enter the United States” as top enforcement priorities. The use of immigration detention to deter future migration is inherently arbitrary, as it sidesteps the requirement for an individualized assessment of the need to detain, and is therefore prohibited under Article 9 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR). In addition, the current interpretation of the 2014 enforcement priorities has effectively led to a penalization of asylum seekers in violation of Article 31 of the 1951 United Nations Convention relating to the Status of Refugees, which provides that states may not penalize asylum seekers for their “illegal” entry or presence in the country.

U.S. international legal commitments also require that detention for immigration purposes be used only in limited circumstances and for the shortest time possible, with procedures in place for individual reviews of custody before a court. Despite U.S. policies that allow for release on parole, bond, or other conditions, failures to implement these policies have led to the often prolonged and unnecessary detention of asylum seekers. For example, reports indicate that asylum seekers are needlessly detained for many months or longer despite meeting ICE’s publicly enumerated criteria for parole.<sup>7</sup> Moreover, arriving asylum seekers are not afforded access to immigration court custody reviews, other than in the Second and Ninth Circuits, and there only after six months of detention.

The immigration detention system is now driven by profits and devoid of due process. ICE is the biggest federal client of the private prison industry. Approximately 73 percent of detained immigrants are held in facilities operated by private, for-profit prisons corporations. In August the Deputy Attorney General announced that the Bureau of Prisons will phase out the use of private prisons. These are the very same private prisons that are doing big business with DHS to detain the vast majority of immigrants.

Profiteering should never play a role in any detention system, especially when it deprives the liberty of children, mothers, and asylum seekers. The results of privatized detention have been tragic. At the Eloy Detention Center, run by CCA, 14 people have died since 2003. Despite death reviews documenting alarming lapses in medical care, ICE has continued the Eloy contract with CCA. Similarly, in 2009-10 a CCA transport guard sexually assaulted multiple women locked up at the Hutto detention facility.<sup>8</sup>

Mass detention of immigrants is costly to American taxpayers, devastating to immigrants and their families,<sup>9</sup> and profitable to private prison corporations. In these final months of the Obama administration we urge you to immediately take measures to reduce unnecessary and prolonged detention and to move toward more rights-respecting and cost-effective policies:

- End the detention of families and stop placing families in expedited and reinstatement of removal proceedings.

- End the “mandatory detention” of asylum seekers by placing asylum seekers into regular removal proceedings rather than summary processing.
- To the degree that individuals seeking protection are processed through expedited or reinstatement of removal, robustly exercise existing humanitarian parole authority for these asylum seekers and issue written guidance reminding ICE Field Offices that the 2009 Asylum Parole Directive is in full force and must be followed.
- Commit to a complete phase out of ICE’s contracts with private prison companies and direct ICE not to enter into any new contracts with local jails.
- Provide all individuals detained by ICE prompt access to individualized custody redetermination hearings before an immigration judge, and implement automatic court custody redetermination hearings for every individual detained for more than six months, as numerous federal circuit courts of appeal have found the Constitution to require.
- Require that ICE consider a person’s ability to pay when setting bond.

Eight years ago this administration began with a commitment to overhaul our immigration detention system “thoughtfully and humanely.”<sup>10</sup> This administration is ending its tenure with skyrocketing detention rates that have shattered all prior records, locking up more children and asylum seekers than ever before, and running an out-of-control detention system where for-profit prison titans are profiting at the expense of taxpayers and immigrants. On behalf of the men, women and children who remain needlessly behind bars, we urge you to take immediate action.

We request a meeting with you to discuss these concerns and recommendations as soon as possible. To facilitate this request, please contact Heidi Altman at the National Immigrant Justice Center at haltman@heartlandalliance.org or 312-718-5021.
